

Scrub away those February blahs with this organic loofah.

Vibrant creations for kids

YOYOMAMA.CA — Liven up the potential gloomy days of February with these bright, kid-friendly finds:

If you'll be jetting off anywhere soon then Around the World With Mouk is a great book for travelling tots.

Mouk takes you on a world tour as he and his animal friends introduce you to different local customs. And in addition to the story and jam-packed, vibrant illustrations there are also search-and-find games and lots of reusable stickers to keep your wee one busy: raincoast.com.

Rubber duckies are a classic toy but many plastic ducks can be toxic and BPA-laden, which is why we like this all-natural rubber duck. Made from rubber that's harvested sustainably without pesticides, and hand-painted with non-toxic, lead-free paint, these bright, squeaky ducks make great gifts for new babes. After all why not show your love for them and the environment: novanature.ca.

Any child with a yen for fancy shoes will identify with the little girl in Eleri Glass's The Red Shoes whose mother wants to buy her sensible lace ups while she's got her eye on a lovely apple red pair. We love

Ashley Spires' illustrations that harken back to the style of the '60s and make the red shoes truly "pop": simplyread-books.com.

Organic loofah scrubbies from Arte Filum have a great story behind them. They're the creation of a pioneering group of women in Paraguay who cultivate the loofah fruit in their own back yards to guarantee it's free of chemicals and pesticides. The loofahs are then hand dyed with non-toxic dyes to create products that are fun for both bathing and playing: arte-filum.com.

Snack Taxis are a reusable alternative to plastic bags — and they're just the right size for a handful of cheddar bunnies, cheerios or carrots.

With a cotton exterior and waterproofed nylon lining they're heavy metal-, phthalate-, PBB- and PBDE-free. And they can be machine washed and hung to dry, but they tend to take awhile to air dry so we save them for dry snacks that can be cleaned up with a quick wipe rather than a full on wash: everylittlebitgreen.com.

And spring will be springing before you know it!
